INTRODUCTION

The Northern Neck of Virginia, that area lying between the Potomac and the Rappahannock Rivers, in 1649 was granted to Lord Ralph Horton, Lord Henry Jermyn, Lord John Culpeper, Sir John Berkeley, Sir William Morton, Sir Dudley Wyatt and Thomas Culpeper, Esq. by Charles, the exiled son of executed Charles I, for their support. Lord Thomas Culpeper, son of one of the original patentees, by 1681 had purchased the rights of the other patentees and became sole proprietor of the Northern Neck. The Northern Neck was re-granted to Culpeper in 1688 and passed to his daughter on his death, then to her son, Lord Thomas Fairfax. It became known as the Fairfax Grant.

The Northern Neck Proprietary was not seized during the Revolutionary War as Lord Fairfax had been a resident in Virginia since 1735 and was not considered an alien. His office continued to operate until 1781, shortly after his death. The ownership was in dispute until the last surviving heir sold his title to the last manor in 1808, thus terminating the Fairfax family interest.

Until 1690 grants in the Northern Neck area were included in the Virginia Colony Grant Books. Beginning in 1690, grants in the Northern Neck were issued by agents of the Proprietary and maintained separately from the grants by the Colony. The "headright" system used in the Colony was never recognized in the Northern Neck. Persons desiring land purchased warrants that specified the exact location of the land. Warrants were then taken to the official surveyor for a survey of the land. Warrant and survey plat were then returned to the Proprietor's office where the grant was issued provided there was no discrepancy or conflicting claim. Original surveys and warrants are extant for most of the Northern Neck grants. They contain information that supplements the text of the grants.

Northern Neck Grant Books 1-5 & A-E contain the Northern Neck grants for the years 1690-1742, with Books 5 & E containing the survey plats for nearly all the grants in those books.

The original Grant Books are to be found as "Northern Neck Grants, 1690-1874," Land Office (Record Group 4), Archives Branch, Virginia State Library, Richmond, Virginia. Microfilms of these original Grant Books, made by the Photographic Department of the Virginia State Library, were used in making these present abstracts.

Neill Marion Nugent, in Cavaliers and Pioneers (3 vols., 1934, 1977, 1979), abstracted all the Virginia Colony grants from 1623 to 1732. A Supplement, issued by the Virginia State Library in 1980, contained abstracts of the Northern Neck grants from 1690 to September 3, 1692. This present work begins with the first grant in Book 2 dated October 1, 1694 and extends the coverage of the Northern Neck abstracts to 1742. At the present time no explanation for this two-year gap has been found.

Names have been copied from the grants as they appeared in the grant, or as near as could be determined from the writing, and have been abbreviated only when and as they appeared in the original document.

Grants are identified by Book; for example, 2-53 signifies that the grant begins on page 53 in Grant Book 2. This numbering has been used so those interested in examining the original grant (on microfilm) would have a convenient means for locating the grant. The grant number may be a page number or grant number, depending upon the grant book numbering system.
